

Investigative Threat Assessment Process

ITAP - Our behavioral threat assessment and management course is designed to equip threat assessment teams with a fact-based, systematic approach to identify, inquire, assess, and manage potentially dangerous or violent subjects.

About Our Program

Threat assessment teams are critical in ensuring the safety and well-being of schools, campuses, and workplaces. This course gives them the tools to assess threats comprehensively and create effective risk management plans.

The course is 7 hours in length and taught to law enforcement, school staff, human resources, worship center security, and counselors.

Why Choose Us?

Your course will be taught by an accomplished instructor that has real-world experience conducting hundreds of threat assessments. Their experiences will illustrate the threat assessment concepts making the relatable and practical.

FACT-BASED APPROACH

Our course adopts a fact-based methodology, enabling threat assessment teams to objectively gather and analyze evidence and information. This approach ensures that decisions are based on data, not assumptions or biases.

ASSESS INTENT, MEANS, AND MOTIVATION

It is crucial to differentiate between individuals who merely make threats and those with the intent, means, and motivation to carry them out. Our course will teach you how to evaluate these critical factors to gauge the level of risk accurately.

RISK MANAGEMENT AND REDUCTION

Discover strategies to create a comprehensive plan to manage subjects of concern effectively. This includes implementing measures to reduce their risk level and ensuring the community's safety.
